EVER FIND YOURSELF AT ODDS WITH SOMEONE OVER THE MEANING OF SOMETHING THEY HAVE SAID OR DONE?

This type note is often used to show how brilliantly our minds work, how we can figure things out, even when given improper information. However, it is actually a powerful example of how the mind (like it often does in life) is obviously not seeing what is on the page - the page is filled with nonsense that the mind can fill with meaning - its meanings - perhaps accurate, perhaps not, but its meanings all the same. But, much like life . . . its interpretation, triggered by what we think we see, while the mind dismisses what is actually there.
